

Carolyn Roark

December 11, 1953 - July 8, 2018

Carolyn Roark, 64, passed away on Sunday, July 8, 2018 in Enon, Ohio. She was born December 11, 1953 in Springfield, Ohio to Homer and Ethel Pyles. Carolyn is a retired teacher from Russell Independent School System in Russell, Ky. Carolyn's favorite pastimes included spending time with her girls and family, researching genealogy, and crocheting for the prayer shawl ministry at Enon United Methodist Church, just to name a few. Carolyn is survived by her two daughters, Katie (Chris) Chapman of New Carlisle, Ohio, and Carrie Roark of Enon, Ohio. Carolyn was preceded in death by the love of her life, her husband, Richard Roark. Carolyn was loved by many family and friends and will be missed by all who knew her. A graveside service will be held Friday, July 13, 2018 at 1:30 pm, in Bellefonte Memorial Gardens, Flatwoods, Kentucky. Adkins Funeral Home, Enon is assisting Carolyn's family with her final wishes.

Cemetery Details

Bellefonte Memorial Gardens Inc

700 Red Devil Lane
Russell, KY 41169

Previous Events

Burial

JUL 13. 1:30 PM (ET)

Bellefonte Memorial Gardens Inc
700 Red Devil Lane
Russell, KY 41169

Tribute Wall

MC

“ Mac Colliver lit a candle in memory of Carolyn Roark

Mac Colliver - August 04, 2018 at 07:03 AM

“ Pretty Please was purchased for the family of Carolyn Roark.

July 11, 2018 at 12:49 AM

AJ

“ When I think of Carolyn so many memories come to mind and they all evolve around Carolyn contributing to others! I remember spending time in the summers there as kids. I remember her working with me trying to help me do better when I was struggling in school. I remember making the honor roll and her being proud of me. I remember her helping my son learn to read. I remember her having tea parties and visiting Brielle as a newborn. I'm so thankful to Carolyn for her unconditional love and accepting heart. She never made you feel judged or Unaccepted and was always sure to make everyone feel welcomed. Our hearts are so sad for the loss of her and so joyous for her reuniting with Dick. I love you Carolyn.

Amanda Cassell Jenkins - July 10, 2018 at 08:14 PM

NS

“ Carolyn was a fighter. She never gave up. She always fought the fight, no matter how big or small. She always gave her all. I will always remember her for that. From visiting her on my summer breaks as a child to coming to my wedding when she wasn't feeling well. She always tried to put family first no matter how she felt. I love her for that. She raised awesome daughters who are dear to my heart. I am proud to call them my family. #carolynstrong

Natalie Smith - July 10, 2018 at 07:44 PM

GH

I was so saddened to hear about Carolyn 's death I have so many great memories of teaching with her at Russell She & I were partner teachers sharing ideas about our K-1 students she always had a smile on her face students & was so energetic ! We shared so much about our children as they grew up! May you Rest In Peace dear Carolyn 🙏🙏

Gloria Hayslip - July 11, 2018 at 07:51 AM

KC

“ I've started and erased my post several times. There are no words that can express the love and gratitude I have for this woman. She was such a mother and caregiver. Some women just have the motherly touch. That was my mom. I never doubted her love for me for one minute. It was unconditional. I don't know what I am going to do without her. I knew I could count on her through thick and thin. She was there whenever I needed her, and then some. I know one of the hardest things for her about her illness was knowing she was going to leave her family behind. My heart aches knowing she is gone. I didn't think it would hit me so quick, but oh, my heart aches.

Katie Chapman - July 10, 2018 at 06:58 PM

NS

Love you Katie!

Natalie Smith - July 10, 2018 at 07:46 PM

AJ

Love you Katie!!!! She's irreplaceable!!! The ache is hard and fast. I only hope having others around you will help ease it.

Amanda Cassell Jenkins - July 10, 2018 at 07:58 PM

VH

Carolyn was a one of kind person, my heart hurts for her

viola hayward - July 11, 2018 at 01:34 PM