Colleen "Camie" Muncy

July 15, 1948 – July 31, 2025

Colleen Muncy, lovingly known as Camie, passed away on July 31, 2025, at the age of 77. She left behind a legacy of flowers, crafts, laughter, and one very spoiled dog named Happy. Camie spent 26 years as a florist, which means she arranged more bouquets than most people will ever receive in their lifetime. If you ever got flowers from her, they probably looked perfect — and if they didn't, she would have happily told you how to fix them. She and her husband George Muncy were twice honored as Home of the Week winners, proving their lawn was greener and their porch more inviting than most. Together, they also served as judges for Springfield's Community Beautification Committee, encouraging neighbors to take pride in their homes and gardens. Camie loved arts and crafts, especially painting, and her creativity spilled into every corner of her life. She was also an animal lover, devoted to her dog Happy, who enjoyed a life of treats, cuddles, and unconditional love. She is survived by her husband George Muncy; daughters Kristen (Hickle) Goldschmidt and Heather Hickle; stepson Todd Muncy; and grandchildren Keeghan Mclain, Brooke Dale Mari-Lingerfelt, Jessica Newsome and Justin Goldschmidt. She will be remembered by family and friends for her wit, her warmth, and her ability to make everything just a little more beautiful. Camie was preceded in death by her parents Harry Moore and Mabel Maxine Dettman, along with her siblings Don Moore, Pat Moore, Ron

Calhoun, Jeannie (Calhoun) Gardner, and Barbara (Calhoun) Chatfield. Her family asks that in her honor, you plant a flower, paint something colorful, or give your dog an extra treat. Camie would have loved that — and she probably would have smiled while telling you how to make it even better.
