“ Dave was a mentor to countless Medical Lab professionals and those that are in Infection Control. He was a great teacher and friend and was always there with sage advice. I hear myself saying many of the things that he told me years ago. He had a wonderful sense of humor and I still enjoy passing on some of the incidents that happened over the years. In short, Dave made a difference to many of us.

Met David, my neighbor in North Hampton, 1946. Played lots of cowboys & indians and model railroading in the basement. Started and finished school together @ Northwestern High. Lots of good memories of David and the Taylor family as they were active in many school function throughout our school years.

“ Dave taught many infection control practitioners the basics (and beyond) of microbiology. He was a gifted teacher, making the complicated simple--not to mention, humorous. RIP. Thanks, Dave.
