“ I love you Grandpa. Giovani is so big and beautiful, you said he's the only baby you knew that kept on getting cuter and cuter and you were absolutely rightHe's Gorgeous and so smart! I tell him about you every day. I will never let your memories be forgotten! One year of my life you have been gone now and I have never been the same. Kiss my Grandma for me and hold her tight. I know you Two are having the time of your life dancing up there. I'll see you one day. Until then I'll be taking care of G (Jimmy) Andrew just like you told me to.

“ My Hero, My Grandpa what am I going to do when I don't see you sitting in your lazy boy flipping through channels in your bib Overalls that you wore my whole entire life ?!! You had this Sh*t eating grin when you told a joke you thought was funny and you LOVED to punish us with Roy stories and picking up sticks!!! I remember when I was really young , I was trying to cook Ramen noodles and one fell inside the burner, I knew you would freak out, so my young self tried to get it out with a paper towel 🙋🏻👧 And it caught on fire and I threw it in the trash can and the trash can went up in flames and I ran to get you and said “GRANDPA David caught the trash can on FIRE !!!! (I knew you would kick my butt and I didn't want any part of that)....So you immediately went to find my brother (who was doing nothing wrong, he was innocently mowing grass) and you stuck your BOOT SO FAR UP HIS BUTT 🤢🤢🤢🤢🤢 You we're mad and he had no idea why he was getting a butt whoopin' for mowing the grass 🙄🙄🙄 You were tough on us because you wanted us to be good kids. Well I can only speak for myself, but grandpa I'm a good kid finally. And the values and lessons you instilled in my mind and heart will be passed on to my son (Your Jimmy Boy) and he will always know how proud of him you were. I know you were proud of me because I finally straightened up and that's all I wanted in life because during my bratty teenage years I know I let you down. You didn't know how to raise a girl in the first place let alone one that looked like your wife and had your temper. I never understood how you could be mad at me for literally being you 🙋🏻👧 But I will remember all the trips we took in the semi, all the good times and bad times and every wisecrack you ever told. You had a hell of a sense of humor gramps. You were a good man. And an excellent father to me. Thank you for saving me grandpa when my own parents didn't want us. I promise to take care of “Jimmy” the way you took care of me for the rest of my life. I will make sure you are always mentioned to him so he never forgets you. I sure wish you could see him walking now 💔💔💔💔 I love you Jim. I miss you so much. I will always make you proud...especially when it comes to “Jimmy.” We love you 🙏

“ I have such fond memories of your Dad / Grandfather. He was always nice to me and even gave me a ride when I called David To help me get my car started. David was out but he said he would come see what he could do and ended up driving on a cold, snowy night all the way out to So. Vienna. Great man.
