“ Lydia and Family,
So sorry to hear of your loss. My condolences to family and friends.
I always enjoyed going to your hardware store and always kidding Don about hiding behind his desk! We harassed each other for many years and he was a great guy and I appreciated Lydia helping me find all the strange things I needed.

“ Sorry for your loss, but grateful for the man and the encouragement he gave to many during his life. I will always remember him for the way he gave to others and made the best of his life while serving others. He and Lydia still had 4 of their 6 children living with them when they gave me a place to stay during my college years, and they never asked for anything. Provided meals and a wonderful house full of love and acceptance. He was the first person I ever heard read the second chapter of Luke on Christmas Eve out loud to his family, which explains the true meaning of Christmas. He opened up his home to many who worked on their cars in his garage, while his cars sat outside in the weather. He was so crafty and ingenious that he and his family (and a few fortunate friends) built their own big screen television back in the late 1970's. He spent several weeks fine tuning it and aligning the projector lamps. It turned out amazing and lasted for many years. His life was actually a sermon that we could all learn from, and do our best to follow. Looking forward to seeing him again when we all get to heaven!
