“ There are so many memories of Jeff. I will have to say my fondest memories of him are when we were all growing up on 124 in Wellston, Ohio. Him, my brother Robert, & I. May you rest in peace you sweet soul. May your boys never forget the love you have for them. Go rest high buddy.

I miss you bub so much my heart aches for you.. Just to hear your voice again would be such a blessing..... I cant even begin to list my fondest memories because I have so many.. If I had to choose id say it was when I came down to see you and we was sleeping in the attic bedroom at papaw and nannies and you woke me up punching me because you said I was pinching you and really it was a wasp nest in the room with us so you was actually being stung.. Lmao That's just one of them but theres so many I wish we could make more but that's not Gods plan he needed you in heaven more than us.. I will never understand or think I understand the reason why but i do know what a good person you were and always strived to be better.. I miss you sweet sweet face so much and just having you there to vent.. I need you now more yhan ever and wish I could pick up a phone and call you you would just be getting to work right now.. I dont know what came over me this morning but I just need to hear ur voice.. So i am gonna go to dads icebucket challenge..RIH lil brother and be there when my time comes to comfort me cause we both know how scared I am of dying.. Till we meet again Bub...
