“ Dad, one can ask how we built that strong relationship. It started with two guys who decides separately to spend time on a poor and out of time island of Ireland. So poor that only old people lived on it, the young left, probably for Dublin, London or USA.

We traveled the island every day separately and meet every evening at the pub. Everybody was speaking at one time and you were very easy to understand compared to the rough west Irish accent. Chance made that we meet again and that you get to know my parents, my brother, my sister, Catherine...

Then it was my turn to meet Ladonna and your friends while you were having rest and joke with the nurse at the hospital. For 30 years we never stopped being in contact, mailing, thinking at eachother.

Your my friend, my brother, my twin spirit.

You will always be in my heart and in my mind. Thank you for all the fun, thank you for all that talks, thank you sharing your look and your love for life with me.

I love you Dad. Philippe
